

No Operation

Mrs. Malinda Akers, of Basham, Va., writes: "I had what doctors call 'prolapse,' and couldn't stand straight. I had pain in my back and shoulders, and was very irregular and profuse. Doctors said an operation was needed, but I couldn't bear the thought of the knife. After taking three bottles of Wine of Cardui, I could walk around. Can now do my housework and am in splendid health."

Cardui is a pure, vegetable, medicinal essence, especially adapted to cure women's diseases. It relieves excessive periodical pains, regulates irregularities, and is a safe, pleasant and reliable remedy for all sick women. In successful use for over 70 years. Try it.

THE TRADESMAN INTERVIEWS BLISS

Mayor Gives His Views on Municipal Ownership of Public Utilities.

The Tradesman, of March 1, in an article on "Public Ownership of Public Utilities," contained the following from Mayor Bliss, being one of a number of interviews with mayors of southern cities:

"A municipal plant properly operated should be just as remunerative to the city as it is to a private corporation. These are public necessities and should be owned and operated by the public through their chosen officials and should produce a revenue for the public for the purpose of reducing taxation. I am not an advocate of operating any municipal plant at cost but of operating it at a reasonable profit above cost of operating and repairs and this reasonable profit should be used to meet the other expenses of the municipal government and as far as possible to reduce taxation. In many cities were these things owned by the municipality and operated by competent officials the result would be the abolishment of taxes, which would be hailed with delight for the very simple reason that taxes never have been and probably never will be justly distributed among the taxpayers. By operating these public utilities at a profit every person who used them would contribute to the public treasury and would feel no burden in doing so, and furthermore being a stockholder as a public citizen he would have an interest in seeing these things properly managed and kept on a paying basis. "This city does not own any of its public utilities at the present time but has voted $250,000 of bonds to either buy the present waterworks or build a new one. This is as far as it has progressed in municipal ownership, but the people, by a large majority, are in favor of municipal ownership and in all probability it is only a question of time that electric light and gas will be added and possibly later the ownership of street railways."

and remember the next time you suffer from pain—caused by damp weather—when your head nearly bursts from neuralgia—try Ballard's Snow Liniment. It will cure you. A prominent business man of Hempstead, Texas, writes: "I have used your liniment. Previous to using it I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism and Neuralgia. I am pleased to say that now I am free from these complaints. I am sure I owe this to your liniment." Sold by W. A. D'Alemberte.

HORSES TURNED INTO SAUSAGES

Antwerp, March 5.—The Belgian Minister of Agriculture has addressed a communication to the municipality of this city requesting them to take measures to put a stop to the abuses resulting from the importation of old and worn-out horses from England. These animals, the communication states, are killed in Belgium and turned into sausages, which are labelled and sold as the best brand of sausages.

SKILL WITH WEAPONS AS STRENGTH IN WAR

The Government Has Forty-Seven Organized Clubs for Rifle Practice.

WORK ALONG THE SAME LINES THAT IS BEING DONE BY OTHER NATIONS — INDUCEMENTS SHOULD BE OFFERED CIVILIAN RIFLE CLUBS—WORK OF NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

Washington, Mar. 5.—One only need know the history of this country, and understand what military efficiency means to realize how tremendously important it is that our citizens should be more or less familiar with modern arms. Skill with weapons spells strength with war. It is said that a large percentage of the volunteers in the late war had never fired a military rifle before entering the service. It is this class of young men the National Rifle Association is desirous of instructing in rifle shooting, organizing them into rifle clubs.

Experience so far gained in the rifle club movement has shown that these clubs are a help to National Guard enlistments, members, in many cases, joining the guard for the practice in shooting they thus secure. The great advantage of the rifle club is that it offers an open door to the man whose pressure of civilian vocations makes it impossible for him to attend drills and camps of instruction.

Government Clubs. The United States has forty-seven organized government clubs with a membership of about 3,000 (not counting the German-American clubs). The little republic of Switzerland, with its three and one half millions of population, has 3,656 clubs, with a membership of 133,486. England has 670 clubs with a membership of 43,225. Data concerning the number of clubs in France, Italy, Spain, Denmark, Australia, Canada, Brazil and the Argentine Republic, countries where great interest is taken in this matter, are not available. Switzerland gives its rifle clubs a money appropriation of about $300,000 annually. With this expenditure 142,704 finished marksmen were turned out in 1905.

Work in England. The English government gives its National Rifle Association free ammunition and much indirect assistance in renting target facilities, and detailing regular army officers and men to assist in running the annual matches at Bisley.

From the King, the Prince of Wales, and prominent citizens generally, county and colonial subscriptions, banks, business houses, etc., are received donations for the support of the National Rifle Association of Great Britain to the extent of from $15,000 to $20,000 annually. The association has a surplus of $189,000 of its credit.

The Dominion of Canada gives a grant of $15,000 annually to its National Rifle Association; Italy appropriates $120,000 to her Rifle Association annually, and France gives even more than this to her federation of rifle clubs. The United States appropriates for the National Rifle Association of America—nothing. To the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice is annually given $5,000 for the expense of its members, and for the prizes in the national matches.

Inducements Necessary. The regular army and militia are well taken care of, but nothing has ever been done in this country to foster civilian rifle clubs except what the National Rifle Association of America has done. This has been in a very small way only, owing to the lack of funds, the only recourse available being the small annual income from membership fees and dues. If the movement toward civilian rifle clubs is to meet with any measure of success in the United States it would seem necessary that some inducements should be offered for citizens to organize clubs, in the way of arms and ammunition, permission to use the government and stage ranges, prizes for excellence in competitive shooting, and assistance toward the building of small ranges.

Training of Boys. In 1904, in Switzerland, 13,000 boys were organized into shooting corps. Reckoning according to population if the Swiss system existed in the United States, there would be nearly 300,000 boys instructed in rifle shooting, and if shooting clubs existed with us in similar proportion as in Switzerland, the membership would attain to nearly 5,000,000. Switzerland has 2,300 communes (counties), and 2,735 ranges; the United States has, roughly speaking, 3,000 counties and only about 260 ranges. A bill introduced by Representative Wiley, of Alabama, contemplates a range for each congressional district. We have a number of states that do not own ranges even for the use of their organized militia. This defect will, in a measure, be corrected through the recent act of congress increasing the annual appropriation for the militia to $2,000,000, and requiring the state to use at least 25 per cent of their allotment for building rifle ranges and practice. A state may use its total allotment for this purpose if it sees fit to do so. Under this law many of the states have begun and others will soon begin the building of ranges, and it is hoped that when completed they will be thrown open to the use of members of civilian clubs under proper regulations.

Policy of Harmony. The National Rifle Association has inaugurated a policy of working in close harmony with the military authorities of the states, of broadening its sphere of influence by securing life members, and by forming new clubs. Offices have been established at 299 Broadway, New York, with the secretary in charge. If the association receives the proper co-operation and support we will very soon have in this country many thousands of national marksmen, as the members of rifle clubs are called who qualify under the code adopted, using the army rifle, and it will never be said again that at least 85 per cent of the volunteers (as it is believed to have been the case in the last war) had never fired a rifle before enlistment. General Washington's maxim that "to be prepared for war is the most effective means to promote peace" is being followed by advocating and promoting rifle shooting among our citizens.

Views of the President. In his message to congress the president has this to say: "We should establish shooting galleries in all the large public and military schools, should maintain national target ranges in different parts of the country, and should in every way encourage the formation of rifle clubs throughout the country." This is not the first time the president has put himself on record as in favor of promoting rifle shooting among the citizens of the country. Not only the president, but Secretary of War, Mr. Taft, Secretary Root, General Oliver, Assistant Secretary of War, General commanding the army, and many men prominent in the affairs of the country have also recognized the importance from the standpoint of national defense, of this subject, and the necessity of something being done to bring about the results for which the National Rifle Association of America has been striving for years. Public interest must be aroused, the people of this country must understand the great importance of this work, and action of congress must follow to fully attain the desired results.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days, or money refunded 50c.

WILL SELECT AN ALDERMAN

Meeting of the Voters for Precinct No. 12 Has Been Called for Thursday Night.

Prominent citizens of precinct No. 12 have called a meeting of the voters of that precinct for the purpose of selecting some resident to become a candidate for alderman from the precinct in the coming primary.

The meeting is to be held in the court house on Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, and those residing in the precinct and who are interested in bringing out a good man are invited to be present and participate.

Nutria Fur is Rare.

Nutria fur comes from a little animal which makes his home on the banks of the river De la Plata in South America. The climate and location suit him so well that he has never been found in any other locality. He is equally at home in the water or ashore, being provided by nature with nostrils set very high, so that he can swim with just the tip of his nose out of the water. The old lady nutria swims around, with five or six young ones on her back, the rest of her antiseptic family tagging along as best they may. Nutria holds the same position among batters' furs as gold does among the metals or silk among fabrics.—Batman.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has surpassed all other medicines, in merit, sales and price. Its success is great as it has been, has apparently just begun. It cures more testimonials in the last two years than the previous two—over 40,000. It has the confidence of the people—proof of its unequalled worth. It purifies the blood, cures all blood diseases, all skin and all eruptions. It strengthens the stomach, creates an appetite, builds up the whole system. It cures indigestion and makes the weak strong. In use in the form of a liquid, or in new tablet form, 100 Doses.

Independence for the American Cigar Smoker

That's What

The American Cigar Company Stands For

You can't be an independent smoker as long as you depend on somebody else to select your cigars for you.

You must know what you want and get it.

The "Triangle A" means freedom.

It means better cigars of every grade than the best made under old conditions.

It's the Identification Mark of Cigar Quality

Do you realize that you have always bought cigars without any reliable guide as to quality, value or condition? The question is: How can you know you are getting the best cigar for your money?

You can be sure before you buy.

Wherever you buy, whatever price you pay, whatever your taste, you will find the best cigar for your money in boxes bearing the "Triangle A" mark of merit

—no matter what the brand name. This "A" (Triangle A) mark identifies the product of recently perfected processes of fermenting and blending extensively applied on scientific principles in the American Cigar Company's immense specially-constructed stemmeries—exclusive methods beyond the knowledge or facilities of ordinary manufacturers.

The New CREMO

Every box is now extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red. The cigars are kept clean, fresh and in perfect smoking condition until the box is opened.

Where She Would Be. "This is what happened," the woman began. "I asked the janitor to take up the rainy day carpet in the hall after 8 o'clock and put down the clean one. I was going to have company. He said he wouldn't. He intimated that the carpet was plainly good enough for any company I might have. I at once telephoned in his presence to the owner of the house, telling him what the janitor had said, and asked him to request him to put down the clean carpet."

"Up to the present time, which is about time for my company to begin to arrive, the owner has not been heard from. Now, if he goes back on me how will it be with me, think you, from now on in this house?" "You can't always tell from where you are sitting," the girl replied, "but it is my impression that you will be in the consumme."—New York Press.
